IN NICHOLS CASE

NEW - TO-DAY Dead Man Once Member Of New York Bank Concern

The inquest over the remains of Starr Hoy! Nichols, who was found dead in his room at the Hawaiian Hotel, was held last night at the Police Station, and the following verdict was turned in: "Starr Hoyt Nichols came to his death on the 29th day of May, 1909, from an overdose of chloroform self-administered, accidentally, while in agony

The remains were creamted the Numanu cemetery, and Rev. A C McKrevee conducted the services. The ashes are being held by A. L. Atkinson pending directions for their disposal from P. N. Bliss, a nephew of the deceased.

It appears that some time in the 'eighties" Nichols was a member of the firm of Easton, Nichols & Co. bankers of New York. The deceased was a man of literary character and had a volume of verse entitled Breath of the World," published by E. P. Putnam & Sons. In his effects was found an account from the publishers for the production of the He was also a member of the University Club of New York and is reported to have been worth some where in the neighborhood of $100,-Another book of poems writ ten by Nichols was entitled "Mont Rosa," and this had evidently been reprinted. The deceased man was evidently of a very poetic nature, as a great number of papers were found among his belongings, and most of them were covered with verses.
